Mrs. M. B. Parker Hostess to Embroidery Club—

An affair, which in respect to the particular adaptation of its arrangement and the significance of its prominence as a social courtesy marked it as one of rare brilliancy, was the afternoon party of Tuesday given by the president of the Embroidery Club, Mrs. M. B. Parker, in compliment to the members.

This hospitable home was a bower of beauty in its floral dress, red roses and lilies artistically arranged in baskets and vases giving additional beauty to the hall, while in the music room white roses were used to charming advantage.

In response to clever invitations, the guests responded to serve in the capacity of assistant milliners, and, promptly at three o'clock, the hour of appointment, Daisy Proper, (Mrs. G. W. Smith, Jr.), the stock girl and assistant to Madame Vere de Vere, announced that the work room was in readiness for the trimmers.

Original ideas were beautifully emphasized in the details and appointments of the pleasing affair. The trimmers on entering the millinery parlor found it to be an up-to-date establishment. Models of beauty and artistic design were seen on display; and exquisite long stemmed pink killarney buds filled pedestal baskets, and crystal receptacles of the blossoms found placing at every vantage point, giving the room an opening day appearance. In this work room square tables were fitted up with all accessories needed in the construction of making and trimming hats. Madame Vere de Vere (Miss Clara Braatz), a milliner of real note, was in charge, and, under her able supervision real Parisian patterns were soon in construction, street hats, children hats, evening hats, and negligee caps, being the orders to be filled.

Mrs. J. M. Lawrence received the first prize, an auto veil for the first finished product, and the second prize, a bonnet cap, went to Mrs. H. A. Burger for the most accurate work.

All hats were extremely artistic and their uniform excellence necessitated a drawing. Mrs. George Adams was fortunate, receiving two silver hat pins.

The embellishment of the dining-room table was beautiful, its arrangement and appointment being artistically achieved, the millinery idea receiving further emphasis. A pink and white motif prevailed, and an exquisite crocheted lace luncheon set overlaid the polished wood, with a handsome white basket filled with glorious killarney buds forming the central adornment. At either end upturned hats constructed in the pink shades, made novel flower holders, the ribbon streamers forming the handles. Crystal candlesticks held pink shaded tapers, the light from which threw a soft glow over the pleasing surroundings, and a tracery of the Mexican coral vine over the table gave a pretty effect. Miniature hats held the salted nuts, and marking the places, were attractive cards, bearing pretty sketches of girl heads wearing hats. These stood out in relief, and during the luncheon, the guests were again called upon to trim, being asked to place a quill in proper place. Small bud vases each holding a killarney bud were attached to the water tumblers.

Three courses of a most elaborate and dainty menu were served and, on the cream plates were miniature hat boxes containing a dainty sewing set for each guest.

Mrs. Parker is an entertainer of rare taste and tact, and this occasion was but another of the many charming social functions which have made her home the delight of friends and won unfeigned admiration.

Those enjoying the pleasures of the party were Mesdames, J. M. Lawrence, H. A. Burger, J. S. Doan, Geo. A. Adams, E. J. Fountain, P. S. Park, W. C. Davis, Dona Carnes, S. C. Williams, G. W. Smith, M. B. Parker and Miss Clara Braatz.

Celebrated Fourth Birthday—

Tuesday was the fourth anniversary of Master Woodrow Wallace's birth, and in celebration of the occasion numerous friends and playmates gathered at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Wallace, to participate in the honors of his birthday.

On arriving, each one was given a joyous welcome by the host, his mother and sisters. The large, smooth lawn afforded an ideal place for the playground, and the merry guests romped in glee, many amusing games calling forth hearty shouts of laughter. A particular feature of the entertainment to enlist the interest of all the little guests present was finding hidden chewing gum.

The white birthday cake, wreathed in flowers, was brightened by four red burning tapers, each to mark a year of Woodrow's happy life. Much fun was in favor as each guest's turn came trying his or her fortune by cutting some emblem contained in the cake. Master Woodrow was the recipient of many useful and pretty remembrances which showed his popularity among his friends.

The final pleasure was the serving of cream, cake and candies.

Complimentary to Miss Miller—

Mrs. Will Howell was hostess of a delightful theater party on Friday morning when she entertained the members of the Bachelor Girls' Club and relatives in compliment to her cousin, Miss Will Ella Miller of Jacksonville, Ill.

At 9:30 o'clock the guests, numbering fifty, assembled at the Queen Theater, which had been set aside exclusively for this lovely event. Mrs. Howell and the honoree, Miss Miller, received the guests and extended a welcome most cordial and sincere. Assisting Mrs. Howell were Misses Mary James, Lila Adams, Louise Batte, Ruth Boatwright and Noble Webb, Mrs. R. W. Howell and Mrs. Webb Howell.

Throughout the morning a program of pipe organ selections were rendered and at the conclusion of the program the company repaired to a cream parlor, where another social hour was equally enjoyable. Roses of a red hue were utilized in beautifying the space reserved for the company. The tables held at the center a crystal bud vase filled with the chosen blooms. Cream, carrying out the hue of the roses, was served with angel cake.

Swimming Party—

The swimming party given last Saturday afternoon and evening by a few young men proved to be quite an enjoyable occasion. At 4:30 the gay participants motored to the Big Brazos river, where they enjoyed a plunge. Through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Sims, their smooth lawn and hospitable home were extended to the party, where the remainder of the evening was spent. After partaking of a most bountiful and delicious luncheon which was spread on the lawn, dancing proved a delightful diversion.

McIntosh-Reynolds—

A quiet wedding interesting to many friends was solemnized last Sunday in Franklin, at the home of Mrs. Jane Reynolds, uniting in marriage her daughter, Miss Lois Reynolds, to Mr. Jess McIntosh.

Miss Reynolds has visited in Bryan a number of times as guest of her aunt, Mrs. Nannie Rohde, and is accomplished, gracious and of unusually sweet and pleasant disposition.

Her friends join countless others in extending congratulations and best wishes for future happiness and prosperity.

Notes and Personals—

In keeping with the custom of the Woman's Club President's Day will be observed on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of the new president, Mrs. A. M. Waldrop. This popular club is very fortunate in the selection of Mrs. Waldrop as their president for the coming year. She has a most progressive spirit and her splendid executive ability combined with tact will make her a very efficient leader.

Miss Minnie Braatz is spending the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Moore on the J. S. Mooring plantation.

Miss Alina Rohde is visiting friends in San Antonio. This evening she will sing at Miss Ruth Briverson's wedding.

Miss Drummond of Kurien is the guest for a few days of Miss Mabel Zimmerman.

Mrs. Kate Braatz is in Waco visiting her son.

Mrs. P. S. Park will leave Monday for a visit to her daughter, Mrs. E. P. Arneson of San Antonio.

MRS. OTTO BOEHME,
E. GRIESSER.

NEW INSTRUCTOR.

W. E. Pritchett to Teach History at Allen Academy.

Allen Academy has strengthened its already able faculty by the election of Mr. W. E. Pritchett of Huntsville, Texas, as teacher of history. Since the resignation of Prof. Charles Firth from the academy to accept a position in the faculty of the A. and M. College, the principals have been in search of a man to take charge of the work in history. Many applications have been considered and in selecting Mr. Pritchett for the position the principals of the academy feel they have secured an able man.

Mr. Pritchett comes from a family of great teachers, being the son of Prof. Joe Pritchett of Huntsville, and the nephew of John Pritchett of the San Marcos Normal and the late H. Carr Pritchett, who was for years president of the Sam Houston Normal of Huntsville. Henry S. Pritchett, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Learning, is another distinguished educator of the same family.

Mr. Pritchett's training as a teacher has been excellent. After his high school course he had two years in the Huntsville Normal, followed by a four year course at the University of Texas. Later he did graduate work for one year at the University of Chicago, practically completing the courses required for the M. A. degree. He has had several years' successful experience as high school principal and teacher of history. Of Mr. Pritchett's scholarship data furnished by the University of Texas and the University of Chicago afford ample evidence. Dr. Morgan Calloway, head of the department of English of the State University, says: "Mr. Pritchett has a genuine feeling for literature, a taste almost unerring for his years, and he writes excellent English." Dr. Barkerville of the department of English in the University of Chicago, says of him: "Mr. Pritchett, who has had much graduate work with me in English at the University of Chicago, is an earnest and very able student." Mr. Pritchett's recommendations in history are equally strong. He will have in the academy some work in both English and history.

With these two new men, Major Martin and Mr. Pritchett, the academy now has a faculty of seven teachers doing high school work. This gives one teacher to every fifteen or eighteen boys.
